

Sherrie Lynn wants to help people to do their best work in healthy and enjoyable environments. Understanding your own preferences and the preferences of those around you contributes to healthy meaningful work experiences, which fosters innovation, collaboration, and problem-solving. Lynn enables people to sharpen their leadership skills and behaviors to positively influence their teams and those around them by creating and curating personalized development resources.

Lynn has worked in the organizational development, leadership training, and information technology fields. She currently serves on the Learning and Development team at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital where she developed and leads and manages a leadership development program for individual contributors, oversees and coordinates an annual leadership conference, and coaches employees. Lynn has also trained and implemented software from internal proprietary systems to SAP. Lynn is a certified executive coach and is pursuing a PhD in organizational leadership.
