

Kristen V. Massey, MS, is the Director of Core Facilities at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville (UTK). She has 14 years of research administration experience, ranging from pre-award administration to core facility management. Core facilities at UTK operate under a centralized model that was spearheaded under her leadership. As Director of the Core Facilities Program, she is responsible for providing operational and financial oversight to the program, which includes making technical, operational, and financial recommendations and decisions that drive the success and growth of core facilities at UTK. Kristen can be reached at kristen@utk.edu